Small Fires On Increase in County

Crawford County has been fortunate not to have a large fire over three acres yet this year. But the number of small fires have increased. DNR fire fighters reported 23 fire calls as of June 13 this year. Last year, it wasn't until July 4th that 23 fire calls were made.

"People have been real good on the extreme fire danger days," says DNR fire fighter Duane Brooks, "it's been the inbetween days we've had problems."

"We've had a lot of fires from debris burning and kids playing with matches this year," said DNR fire fighter Frank Barber. "We've also two fires from firecrackers and smoke bombs."

So far this year, county residents have been real cooperative about obtaining burning permits and reporting smoke,

Barber, who was recently sent to help fight fires in the Seney area of the U.P., said the public has been a real help this year.

Crawford County Sheriff's deputies searched an area near Old 27 north of the high school before finding the boy approximately 11:50. County Survey Shows Warblers Up Slightly

The number of Kirtland's warblers in Crawford County may have increased slightly in 1986, according to preliminary figures compiled by Ray Perez, DNR wildlife biologist at the Grayling field office.

A survey by the DNR and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in the county June 6-13 found 83 singing males - up from 79 singing males found here in 1985.

Perez said the total number of singing males counted throughout the northern lower peninsula would be available Monday.

The Kirtland's Warbler Recovery Team figures the total breeding population of the bird by doubling the number of singing males counted. Last year, 217 singing males were counted for a breeding population of 434 birds.

The surveyors assume there's a female present for every male counted. The males are easier to count because they announce their territory by loud and persistant singing. Surveyors traverse warbler areas in the morning and can tally the number of males singing in their own territories.

Perez said the teams can make a count in one pass through the area unless its rainy or windy weather. The birds don't sing as much in rainy weather and windy weather makes it hard to hear the birds. If there's any doubt about the accuracy of the count, the teams will make a second pass through Perez said the biggest increase in Crawford County was in the Bald Hill burn area a site included in a new Kirtland's warbler agreement worked out between the DNR and military. Forty five males were counted there - up from 31 counted in 1985.

A slight decrease in birds was found in the military tank range - something both the DNR and military wanted to see. As jack pine stands grow too old for warbler use in the tank range, the DNR is hoping to attract the birds to prime habitat away from the tank range.

Another large gathering of warblers in Crawford County were counted in the Fletcher Road burn area.

In the last ten years, Crawford County has accounted for about 33 to more than 50 percent of all the rare Kirtland's warblers in the world.

The rare songbirds winter in the Bahamas and breed in the summertime in the jack pine plains of northern lower Michigan. They perfer jack pine stands that have been regenerated by a fire 8 to 18 years earlier.

Before man started controlling wild forest fires, there were hundreds of thousands of acres of prime warbler habitat. Currently, the warbler recovery team is managing lands through commercial sales, prescribed burns, and planting to create new habitat. Their goal is to manage 150,000 acres of state and federal land on a 50-year rotation so 30,000 acres are always at prime habitat age. They're aiming to help the bird achieve a breeding population of 1,000 pairs - about five times its present breeding population.

Ninety seven percent of the birds currently nest on public lands which are posted offlimits to protect the rare bird. Free guided tours to a warbler nesting area are conducted daily from the DNR field office in Grayling at 7 a.m. and 11 a.m.

For more information about the tours call 348-6371.

Lehman To Remain Minimum Security

Camp Lehman will be expanded to hold 400 prisoners but will remain a minimum security camp, said Duane Cory, camp supervisor at Lehman.

Preliminary plans by the Michigan Department of Corrections had called for expanding the camp to hold 400 prisoners and turning it into a medium security prison.

Despite remaining a minimum security facility, Camp Lehman will be fenced for more security. Two fences, 12 feet high with wire on top, will be placed around the expanded facility, said Cory.

Architect drawings are not complete yet but tentative plans call for adding three new 80-man barracks with individual rooms, he said. The new units will be located near the outfield of the current Lehman softball diamond.

There will also be an addition to the kitchen and other remodeling of the current

"We hope to get the use of our gym back," said Cory. "We didn't have it last winter and it was tough on everyone.

The gym is being used as a barracks to handle an overload of prisoners. Camp Lehman was built to hold 68 prisoners. For many years it held between 100 and 126 inmates. Last winter 205 inmates were housed at Lehman and currently it holds 198

Cory said construction at Lehman could start in July and will take four months or less. He said preliminary figures for construction are costs of $4.7 to $5 million.

With the increase of inmates after expansion. Cory said the staff at Lehman could increase from its current number of 24 to 75 or 80. Payroll at the facility will increase from about $750,000 a year to $1.5 to $2 million a

Cory said he's already sent in 50-60 applicants for the new jobs from people who applied at Lehman. He said Camp Lehman is finished taking applications but anyone interested in the new jobs should get a civil service application and send it in. He said they've already hired 3-4 people from the surrounding area and will be hiring more local persons. Some of the jobs will be filled by transfers within the system.

With the increase in inmates to 400, Cory said he'll be able to send out as many as 23 10-man work crews.

"That will make the DNR happy," he said. "They have a lot of work to do."

Lehman work crews perform all sorts of jobs at Hartwick Pines State Park, Otsego Lake State Campground, and other DNR

"I'll also have a few more professional crews such as carpenters. Right now, I'm working our only carpenter crew almost full-time helping the city of Grayling."

Camp Lehman is located just north of the Hartwick Pines and has been operated there for about 35 years.

Camp Shawono Switches To Medium Security

Camp Shawono, a minimum security youth rehabilitation camp since it was built in 1973, is being switched to a medium security training school.

The minimum security youth have been all transferred and the facility currently holds 10 medium security youth.

Frederick Woelmer, Shawono Center Director, said only ten to twenty medium security youth will be housed at Shawono until new facilities can be built for them. Shawono formerly held as many as 50 minimum security youth.

Staff levels will remain the same, said Woelmer, to insure adequate security until new facilities are built. Woelmer said DSS officials are still hoping to have new facilities for the medium security training program built by October.

Plans call for a new building with 40 individual rooms for the medium security youth.

There are also plans to add a regional detention center for maximum security youth at Shawono. DSS officials are hoping to have a new building constructed for the detention center by early next year. Woelmer said no maximum security youth would be held at Shawono until the facility for the detention center is built. Plans call for a 15bed lock-up unit plus a fenced ball field.

The medium security and maximum security youth would share the food services and gym at different times and no contact or communication will be allowed between the two groups.

Many of the current rooms at Shawono will be converted into group treatment rooms to allow for a group treatment program. DSS officials say a group treatment program enhances security and reduces truancies significantly.

Shawono was converted to a medium security facility because of a need in northern Michigan for the training school. As a minimum security youth rehabilitation camp, Shawono was only operating at 50 to 60 percent occupancy, as was Camp Nokomis, the other youth rehabilitation camp in the state. DSS officials estimate that Nokomis alone will be able to handle all the youths requiring placement at a rehabil-

Military Shell Hits Riverboat

A riverboat owned by Lacey Stephan was hit by a military shell between 11 p.m. Saturday night and 11 a.m. Sunday morning while it was parked in the front of his home along North Down River Road. The shell, apparently fired from a military machine gun, struck the live well of the boat. Because of the unique construction of the Grayling riverboat, an estimated $2,000 worth of damage was caused by the shell, Stephan said. Camp Grayling officials said they are investigating the accident and should have a report later this

Plans Continue For '86 Fair

Plans for the 4th Annual Crawford County Fair are falling into place. There were people that were skeptical about a county fair at all four years ago and when discussions of property for a permanent location started there were further skepticisms. But the community is beginning to join with the fair board members in taking the fair seriously now.

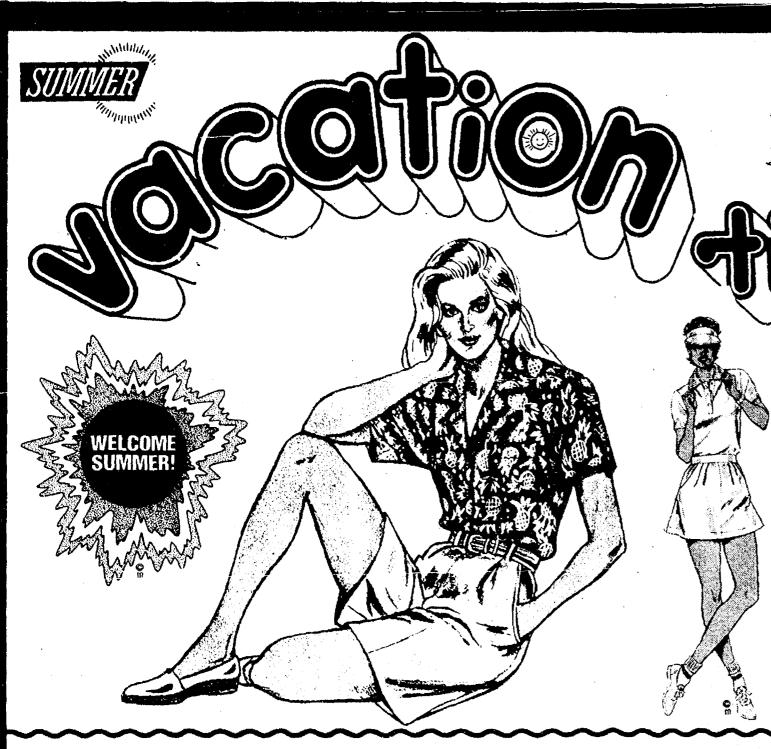

The one thing the community seems to want at the fair more than anything else is a carnival and so we have one of the finest in the state, Masters Rides, from Saginaw, coming up for the fair August 6th through August 9th.

With the change in locations some of the other activities will be dropped altogether but a lot of new ones will be added. This year we are sponsoring a "Kids Olympics". Organizer, and fair board member, Steve Langseth has the preliminary plans tothroughout the community with the final event to be held at the fairgrounds.

Car show organizer Jim Adams has arranged for the 2nd annual show to be held at the high school parking lot which is located near the fairgrounds. That event fairgrounds this year, an event which seems to draw large crowds and is particularly appealing to the teenagers.

The premium books are scheduled for distribution the week of June 16th so watch for it at all the local lending institutions, the county courthouse, libraries, or from any board member. There are a lot of new categories this year and cash premiums will be awarded for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places in the open division and cash premiums will be paid to all who participate in the youth/4-H divisions.

From Our Corner...

We're taking a Father's Day sabbatical for this week and use Jim Fitzgerald's Father's Day column that appeared in the Saturday, June 14th issue of the Detroit Free Press.

Paying $4 for nothing teaches strange lesson

For Father's Day, I'm wondering what my father would have said if it had been suggested that, to protect his children from suggestive music, he should pay $4 for nothing.

That's what happened in Kilgore, Tex., when some concerned parents said they didn't want MTV on their cable TV system. City officials arranged with the cable company to have MTV blocked out of every home willing to pay $4 extra for the service.

I used to think it was ridiculous that you have to pay the phone company to not put your name in the phone book. But that's almost sensible compared to those Kilgore parents paying $12.95 monthly to get less video than is telecast to other homes for $8.95.

Before going further, I should admit I had to ask a co-worker what MTV is. I learned about the Kilgore situation from an Associated Press article that assumed everyone has cable TV. That's understandable. Cable watchers in tiny southwest prairie towns would undoubtedly be surprised to learn there is no cable TV in great big Detroit.

The problem, as I understand it, is that the company which was awarded the Detroit cable franchise years ago can't begin installation until it completes breaking the promises it made to outbid other companies that also wanted the franchise.

As soon as the lavish services contracted for in the winning bid are cut back to urban reality, it is expected that all Detroiters who want to watch cable TV will be required to sit in Hart Plaza in front of one 24-inch television set. Anyway, I learned from a suburbanite that MTV is a rock cable channel that features pounding music and often violent and sexually suggestive videos. "It goes against what we're trying to teach our children," one Kilgore resident said. What they are teaching their children is that the most adult way to prevent kids from watching MTV is not to explain that they shouldn't watch it because loud music and moving pictures will instantly transform the well-raised, church-schooleducated child of Bible-thumping parents into a sexcrazed, pelvis-pumping maniac.

Also, those Kilgore parents are teaching their children that another adult way to prevent kids from watching MTV at home is not to drop the cable service entirely, thus saving $8.95 monthly that could be used to buy blinders and earplugs for youngsters to wear while walking by the Sodom and Gomorrah Rock Video Store. What the youngsters of Kilgore are being taught is that it's more sensible for parents to pay $4 for nothing than it is for them to assume more responsibility than MTV for the behavior of their own children. Also, although it's possible that MTV will turn decent children into violent sex fiends overnight, that terrible threat is not worth a complete (ban of cable TV (and reruns of "Leave It to Beaver") from the home. How would my father have reacted under similar circumstances? When I was a boy, I had my own little radio in my bedroom. I listened to swing music and crime shows while, downstairs on the big Philco, Dad listened to Lowell Thomas. What if some bluenose preacher claimed swing and crime shows made children misbehave, and worthwhile parents should either ban all radios or pay $4 to have the offending shows blocked out? My father would have hooted. He would have told the preacher there were rotten kids before the radio was invented. He would have said that if I turned out rotten, he would never be stupid enough to blame a radio program. Dad would have been right. From him I learned it is a ridiculous cop-out to hold words and music responsible for a boy growing up to be a rapist. For Father's Day, I'm grateful I wasn't born to one of those anti-MTV nuts paying $4 for nothing in Kilgore.

The Bible Speaks

From Calvary Baptist Church ∽

TO MISS HEAVEN, IS HELL!

The person, Work and Word of Jesus Christ are clearly revealed in the Bible. The person of Christ is seen as the Son of God in Matt. 1:23, and Luke 1:31, 32. He is also revealed as God in John 10:30 and I Tim. 3:16. The work of Christ as our Savior is seen in his sacrifice for us in John 3:16, Rom. 5:8, 9, Rom. 9:9-13 and Heb. 12:2. The Word of Christ is truth, He cannot lie, It abides forever. (Titus 1:2 and I Peter 1:23-25).

Jesus Christ by His death on the cross became the propitiation for our sin. He took our place, His perfect sacrifice satisfied God. Man. through faith in the shed blood of Christ will escape Hell, the final wrath of God on those who refuse Christ as Savior. (Rom. 3:25, 26, I John 4:10, and Rev. 20:15). Faith in Jesus Christ is God's requirement, nothing else will satisfy His wrath.

The doctrine of purgatory taught by Roman Catholieism is man's way of satisfying God's wrath. This is biblically a baseless hope and is taught either out of ignorance of Scripture or to cause deception. Purgatory is not found in the Bible and could never satisfy God. Man is cleansed from sin by faith in the shed blood of Jesus Christ, not after death in the fictitious fires of purgatory. If a person dies without trusting Christ as Savior, all the prayers, masses and money will not prepare him for Heaven, it will not satisfy God and he will be lost forever in Hell. Some believe to miss Heaven is purgatory, but the Bible says, to miss Heaven is Hell!

My friend, there is no chance after death to be cleansed from the punishment of sin, (Rev. 20:15). If you die without Christ, or die trusting church tradition, you are forever lost in Hell. You will face Christ as your judge, not your Savior.

In the Roman Catholic faith the authority of popes, councils and traditions are made to be a basis for salvation. One of the certain marks of a false cult or religion is if it has some other authority besides the Bible. The Bible clearly teaches you can know that you are saved. (I John 5:13). Your eternity depends upon your relationship with Christ, not church or tradi-

The Universal Answer: Sue 'em!

by Richard Milliman

WHAT'S THIS WORLD coming to? At least, this part of the world we call Amer-

More and more we seem to be ending up in court, or at least facing the threat of ending up in court. America has, indeed, become the litigious society.

. In the writing and publishing business, we are especially aware of the problems connected with libel suits, and the continuing threat of libel suits. Columnist Jack Anderson a while back did a rundown of what he considered a few eye-opening libel cases, including these:

— In Maine, neighbors complained to the local police chief that a police officer had intimidated their children and kicked their pets. The officer and his wife sued the neighbors, and won a $52,000 libel verdict.

- In New York, a food critic wrote that the pancakes a Chinese restaurant was serving with its Peking duck were too thick; the restaurant owner sued and collected $20,000 in damages.

- In California, a housewife wrote a letter to the local newspaper complaining about a proposed land development; the developer sued her for $3 million.

LIBEL IS NOT the only area in which some rather interesting suits are being filed:

- In New York state, a rejected job applicant went to court charging violation of the state human relations law, claiming that because she was a habitual cigaret smoker she was a "handicapped person" funder state law, and therefore had been discriminated against when she didn't get a job for which the employer wanted a nonsmoker.

- Columnist Anderson also wrote of a tenant who complained that his toilet was broken. "His forebears probably cleared the wilderness, but he wasn't willing to fix his own toilet," Anderson wrote. "Instead, he sued the landlord."

- Closer to home, in one Michigan city a softball player broke his ankle while sliding into second base, so he sued the city, claiming it did not provide safe equipment; he also threw in the umpire as a codefendant!

DO THESE CASES - and dozens of others of which we all are hearing day after day -- have genuine merit? Or do they somehow represent a questionable use of the judicial process, perhaps putting us all in jeopardy of someday running afoul of the system in some innocent way? The courts, of course, will decide in these specific cases.

Excessive use of the courts to settle real or imagined grievances is all part of the growing crisis of litigation, which extends into the whole area of medical malpractice insurance (and rising health care costs to patients as one result), home party host liability, cancellation of public displays of fireworks, clogged court calendars bringing delays of justice, and many other serious or vexing questions which are changing our everyday lives, whether we recognize the changes or not.

But the deeper questions are these: Why is society changing as it is? Why is the courtroom so often becoming the first resort instead of the last resort? What's really causing the seven-league growth of our litigious society?

One thing is certain. Things are different now, and getting worse. Or are they really getting better? There are those who think that way, too.

IF THE NAME FITS — We all hear from time to time of persons whose names are a perfect fit for their particular jobs — such examples as the farmer named Barnes and the golfer named Player. Here are some more we ran across a while back:

- Barbara Stock is a senior account executive on the New York Stock Exchange.

- Dr. Jeff Payne is a veterinarian in Cincinnati, and Dr. Neil Hart is a heart specialist in Cleveland.

- Nick Law is a law enforcement officer in Miami.

- Eugene Sparks is an electrician in Cincinnati. - And the Number One flute player in the Tampa Civic Orchestra is Linda Toote.

SOME CLOSING QUOTES - Sidney Harris is a most quotable nationally-syndicated columnist. Here are a couple of recent quotes which deserve consideration, especially during this election required before 2000, that a rate decrease could be possible by 1995 rather than the 29 percent increase required for the conversion project, and that the other methods are more desirable and economical ways of providing the increased power.

Kelley said the utility is misrepresenting the case by focusing only on recent growth in power demands while current demand is not much higher than in 1979.

Consumers Power Chairman William McCormick, Jr. said the consultants had an anti-utility bias, while its own feasibility study of the conversion involved some of the world's top engineers.

And, he said disputed the consultants' claim that a new gas plant would be cheaper, asserting it would cost up to $1 billion to build a new plant in a new loca-

And, he said it is "patently absurd" to assert the conversion is not technically feasible and discounted fears of underestimated costs.

"The bottom line is that we are prepared to guarantee the cost of the facility at Midland and those costs will be fully competitive with any comparable alternative including purchased power from outside Michigan or a new gas-fired plant," Mc-Cormick said.

Utility spokesman Paul Knopick said the utility and its contractors would guarantee a cost limit determined by a detailed engineering study, which itself would cost about $50 million.

He added Kelley is wrong in asserting none of the Midland costs will be recovered by the utility unless some use is made of the plant, saving utilities in three cases have permitted recovery of "prudent" costs of canceled facilities.

The PSC is close to ruling on Consumers' request that it be relieved of a prohibition against spending additional amounts at Midland without PSC approval.

That prohibition is part of a $91 million a year financial stability rate approved last year, and which Kelley said should be given up if the condition is lifted.

Creative Dance Academy To Present Dance Recital

The Creative Dance Academy in the Grayling Mini-Mall will hold their annual dance recital on June 27th and 28th this year. Although the Academy has gone through many changes over the past several years, this program represents their ninth consecutive annual dance concert.

Louise Tournaud, owner and creative director of the studio has recently purchased the business from the Crawford County Arts Council. The Arts Council bought the business from Ms. Tournaud and kept it going for two years during a financially difficult time. Ms. Tournaud continued to teach for the council, and is enthusiastic about renewing her ownership. Ms. Tournaud originated the Academy nine years ago.

The recitals are always unique and this year is no exception.

The first half of the program is called "Montage" and will feature all dancers in a vareity of dance styles including ballet, tap, jazz, and modern. Several solo's are included.

The advanced ballet class can be seen in a modern number called "In The Air". The dancers will wear black unitards with graffitti in fluorescent colors.

Jessica Brown, 11 years old is an outstanding tap dancer and will perform a solo called "Goofus".

The second half of the program consists of a complete ballet fantasy - "The Wizard of Oz." Amy Denton will star as Dorothy with Jessica Brown as her dog, Toto.

Stephanie Hindmarsh appears as the Scarecrow. This is Stephanie's last year as a student of Ms. Tournaud. Known locally as Miss Grayling 1986, Stephanie has received a scholarship for Dance and Theatre Arts from Western Michigan University. She has taken dance lessons at the Academy for 8 years and has appeared in many different roles.

Teen-Age Suicide: No Other Way Out Of A Crisis

Ann Stephenson, 4-H Program Asst.

Suicide by young people 15 to 24 years old is increasing at an alarming rate. Between 1950 and 1980, suicide by teens and young adults increased 284 percent.

The problem of adolescent suicide is not new. The significance of the problem, however, has emerged only recently. Suicide is the second leading cause of death in the 15 to 24 year-old age group.

"It's the most democratic tragedy," says Alton Kirk, a suicidologist with the Michigan State University Counseling a few social groups. It crosses all economic, gender and racial lines. It can happen to the valedictorian as well as the drug abuser."

Why do young people choose suicide?

"The person may be faced with a series of events that feels completely overwhelming to him or her," Kirk says. "The young person looks at suicide as a solution to a temporary problem without fully realizing that suicide is permanent."

Some adolescents attempt or commit suicide because they have severe emotional problems. But for most adolescents, suicide is a desperate act to end a crisis in their lives.

Other young people choose suicide because they perceive themselves as different from family and peers. Suicidal adolescents in one study described time spent in their families as unenjoyable.

"We know that those kids who committed suicide are kids who generally did not spend a great deal of time with peers or adults," says Leah Hoopfer, Michigan 4-H Youth Program leader. Suicidal adolescents have also reported feeling intense pressure to do well in school. Intelligent but truly depressed and potentially suicidal adolescents are rarely pleased with their academic performance. To them, a "B" grade is the equivalent of an "F." Such perceived failures increase any feelings of hopelessness the young people already are experiencing and lead them to fear further loss of recognition by family members who demand academic excellence.

That sense of hopolossness, a feeling that things will not get better, lies at the root of all suicides, says Ronald Maris, a suicidology expert, during an interview for U.S. News & World Report.

The increased suicide rate has been attributed to a variety of social forces, including families split by divorce, competition for jobs, a decline in religious values, teen pregnancy, drug use, running away from home and juvenile arrest.

Maris found that many people who commit or attempt suicide had role models in their own families. For example, author Ernest Hemingway's father committed suicide, and Hemingway's mother sent him the gun that his father had used to kill himself.

Maris also noted that the increasing incidence of drug and alcohol abuse and promiscuity in schools adds to young people's confusion and hurts their self-esteem.

"Most adolescents believe that they are the only person in the world who is experiencing their particular problem at this time," Hoopfer says.

What advice does Hoopfer offer to parents?

"Listen to them," she says. "Adolescents have a lot to say but they don't say it because we don't take the time to listen. It takes time to hear what a kid has to say. They have a hard time talking about feelings because they may not be developmentally ready to talk about them."

The Michigan 4-H - Youth Program has developed four older youth programs -"Group Dynamite", "Peer Plus", "High on Myself" and "Stress Connection" - to help young people learn to communicate, understand their feelings and make better decisions.

"The Stress Connection" is designed specifically to help a young person determine what is stressful for him or her and how to deal with stress," Hoopfer says.

High on Myself helps young people grow and mature without reliance on chemical substances. Activities include self-concept building, problem solving, stress reduction and coping.

The group Dynamite and Peer Plus programs are designed to give young people experience in values clarification and group cohesiveness and to strengthen leadership and communication skills.

For more information about these or other 4-H programs, contact Ann Stephenson, 4-H Program Assistant at 348-2841 ext. 264.

Damaged Roads

Truck tires inflated to pressures as high as 125 pounds per square inch are causing major damage to roads and may shorten the expected life of many state highways. The problem developed when truck drivers overinflated their tires as a fuel-saving measure. Now, newer tires are being designed for pressures of 140-150 psi.

Darlin', place your thumb and forefinger together. Now move them apart about an eighth of an inch. Got it? That is how close we came to putting the farm up for sale. We have had our problems what with one thing then another, and personal problems popping up when they were needed the least. But when I received word about my liability insurance, that was the last straw. No need to worry though. We are not selling. We just received our priorities and made changes accordingly. We are not selling and are here to stay. Now let us get on to business.

Having problems with cutworms, are you? According to Carrots Love Tomatoes: "A three inch cardboard collar around young plants extended one inch into the ground and two inches above will foil cutworms. Use cardboard cut from toilet paper or paper towel rolls or cut off the top and bottom from a quart size milk carton and cut the remainder into three collars.

"A used matchstick, toothpick, small twig or nail set against the plant stem will keep the cutworm from wrapping itself around the plant and cutting it. Oak leaf mulch will repel cutworms, too."

I thought, like you, that cutworms chewed them off. We ourselves use the paper rolls. My mother prefers the more permanent cups - plastic. I guess she anticipates using them next year. In any case if you do use Oak leaves, plan on using lime in the summer. Oak leaves have a high amount of acid and will make your soil acid. Lime will sweeten it again.

Herbally yours, E. Diona Cerelli, C.H.

Park Interpreter During the middle of last week we pressure tested the steam tractor at the sawmill near the logging camp museum to assure ourselves and the inspector that all was well with our 1912 Port Huron steam tractor. The steam tractor and the sawmill will be the central cast of characters in our fifth annual Old Time Days to be held on June 21 and 22, at Hartwick Pines State Park.

Other activities during those two days will include blacksmithing, wood carving and wood working, painting on glass, spinning and dulcimer music. Refreshments are available at the concession stand. Crafts people from literally near and far will lend their expertise to the two days of Old Time Activities, starting at 10:00 AM each morning until 4:00 PM each afternoon.

Some of the crafts people will be doing demonstrations only; others will sell the product of their skill, but the only fee required is a State Park Vehicle Permit available at the entrance of the park for $2.00 a day, or $10.00 for the year. For those of you who do not know how to get to Hartwick Pines State Park, take exit 259 off of I-75, go east on M-93 for approximately three miles and turn left to the park entrance.

Elementary School

On Wednesday, May 28, 1986, Mrs. Bovee's fourth grade class and the other fourth grade classes went to Fort Michilimackinac. First we went to get information about the fort. A man told us how they load cannons. He shot one and it was very loud but there was no cannon ball in it. From there we went into the fort, in there he fired a muzzle loader. It was very loud too. He told us that they would have about five hundred of them going off at once and there would be so much smoke you wouldn't be able to see. That's why they wore bright red coats so they wouldn't shoot the wrong person. After that we went to a church, and we listened to a recording. When we got out of there we got to run around anywhere in the fort. We went to a place that had a model display of Indians and soldiers fighting. The room had a large statue of an Indian and a soldier with one of their weird hats on and one of their red coats. Another building we went into had a pool table. Another room had old burned wood. It was the only room that had carpet. There was a big hole in the roof. Up there it looked like they were making an upstairs but they weren't finished. In another room there was like a funnel in it. It felt good because it was cool down there. Our guide told us that they started to move the fort to Mackinac Island but they only got part of it to Mackinac Island. After we got done running around and looking at the fort we started walking along the shore to get to the picnic area where we were going to eat. The area around there didn't smell very good. You could hardly stand it. The reason because there were dead fish all along the shore.

We had lots of time to eat. about an hour or forty-five minutes, if we got done early we could go back to the fort, but I didn't, because outside the fort they had things to put your head and hands through and they had things with benches to sit on and put your feet through the holes, they were just like the others ones except they were for your feet. When we came back we were throwing rocks and skipping rocks, the water got deep fast. There were lots of skipping rocks there and big ones to throw in but it seemed like there were more dead fish than anything. They had big telescopes, two of them, and I think they were for looking at big boats and ships that go through there and maybe at the bridge, I'm not sure. To get there and back we went on the Le Coache Tour buses. It took us one hour and a half to get there and back, all together it was three hours of riding. On the bus you could push a button on the arm and it would lay back and the bus even had a bathroom in it.

Written by J.C. Millikin, fourth grade.

Engaged? Discuss Money Before The Marriage

Gall Edwards Extension Home Economist

Love, marriage and money management sound like an unromantic mix. However, engaged couples may have a happier, more successful marriage if they share their financial goals and expectations before tying the knot.

Money is a difficult topic to talk about, especially at a time in your relationship when you're eager to avoid disagreements with your fiance. If you hide your spending expectations, you may be setting the stage for future misunderstandings.

Money is generally listed as a source of conflict by a majority of families that are experiencing difficulty. So, engaged couples may want to make sure they are as compatible in money matters as they are in other areas.

A good way to open up communication about money is to take an inventory of financial priorities.

Together the couple should draw up a list of all the expenses they expect to face in a month, including appliance repairs or payments, church contributions, clothing, furniture, hair styling, insurance, rent, food, recreation, utilities, savings, schooling and others. Then individually each person should rank order the first 10 items he or she would pay help you see whether your priorities are the same or if you have very different expectations. Researchers have found that men and women frequently rank their first three priorities alike, choosing rent, food and medical insurance. Priorities begin to differ further down the list.

Comparing the lists can

Couples also need to discuss their expectations for credit card and installment debt, car purchases, rent or mortgage costs, income needed to live comfortably and paycheck allocation.

Budgeting can reduce the number of conflicts couples will face. Even though it may be difficult to agree on a budget, it will make it easier for the couple to understand their daily expenses in relation to their total financial picture.

Couples also need to discuss long-range goals; if his dream is to save for an expensive boat and she hopes to save for a trip to Europe, some negotiation will need to take place.

They also need to decide who will manage the money, pay the bills and keep the records, and to clarify how major decisions will be made.

As couples compare their priorities and expectations, they may find that they cannot agree on everything. If their differences are so great that they decide they could never live together happily, it's better to discover those differences before the marriage.

But most couples will be able to use financial differences to strengthen their relationship by building communcation skills and learning to solve problems together.

Extension bulletins, "Managing Your Money," E-1778 and "Worksheets for Managing Your Money," E-1779 can be helpful in creating a budget. Single copies are free of charge from the Crawford County Extension Office.

Mental Wellness

Among many Americans, young and old, aging carries an unfortunately negative public image. Aging is not unhealthy; yet this negative misperception of aging tends to lower expectations about the fulfillment that old age offers.

Older adults do face a number of important changes as they grow older. Changes in their status as they retire, changes in financial stability, in health, and in family and social life. Many of these changes can cause stress and anxiety. Compared to the younger population, older adults are more prone to depression, to sleep disturbances and to hypochrandia. Older adults account for 25 percent of the nation's suicides, yet they make up only 11 percent of the population. But this does not have to be.

As America's population expands, health promotion programs that emphasize mental wellness can have a great impact on improving the quality of life for older adults. Many emotional problems can be resolved through self-help programs, group activities, or counseling. Discussions with groups of peers or with counselors about illness, death and dying can ease the grief associated with the loss of loved ones; and participation in group activities can often eliminate the loneliness and depression associated with isolation.

Many apparently emotional or mental problems are really symptoms of physical illnesses that can be treated. A common example is the depression or confusion that can result from medication and which is misinterpreted as signs of senility. Coordination between the medical community, the mental health system and the aging network is particularly important in addressing this kind of problem.

Churches Having Bibletime Marketplace

For the third year, three local churches will hold a Bibletime Marketplace Vacation Church School. June 23 - 27th, 9:30 - 11:30 a.m., St. John's Lutheran, St. Francis Episcopal and Michelson Memorial United Methodist Churches will hold the Marketplace on the lawn of the Michelson Church.

This year's theme is "The Early Church". The children will live in "families" in a tent, a mother, who will see that they are in costume each day, and guide their learning about the era. They will learn what life was like for the early Christians including how they had to worship in the "catacombs" to hide from the Roman soldiers. They will learn Bibletime crafts and hear storytellers.

If you have children who would like to attend the Bibletime Marketplace, they must be registered before the first day of Vacation Church School. Registration must be limited to 100 children who were Kindergarten - 6th grade this past year. There will also be traditional classes for 4 & 5 year olds inside the church.

RSVP Profile

Alice Gase

This month's profile of a Retired Senior Volunteer takes us to St. Helen where we interviewed Alice Gase (rhymes with Case).

Alice Gase became involved with the retiree program through shear boredom. After Alice and George Gase saw the last of their five daughters depart the nest for lives of their own. Alice became bored with having nothing challenging to do. For a woman who had been in business in Saginaw operating a Bakery and also having some expertise in Accounting there had to be something meaningful for Alice.

But then a busy person is always found out. Before realizing a pattern had been set, she was involved with the Blood Pressure Clinic in St. Helen. Was helpful in a volunteer way as a teacher's assistant in St. Helen. Aslo taught Catholic Christian Doctrine for awhile.

Alice is secretary of the St. Helen Civic Association, treasurer of the Lioness. On the Board of Directors of the Civic Association.

If not otherwise active Alice has time to work on the monthly distribution of foods issued by the federal government. She relates one pleasing incident where one young lady recipient became very excited and happily told Alice that there would not be further help needed by the couple as her husband was finally getting a permanent job. Alice thought this very unique and commendable.

Being the gregarious individual Alice is, even the young children open up to our lady. She related an instance where a very young child confidentially told Alice that her sister was infected with head lice. Alice was touched by this confidentiality and hugged the little one.

This outgoing person is an inveterate reader when time permits. Alice and George Gase are grandparents to six boys and five girls, a blessing to them in their advancing years.

Strolling Around Town

by Fay

The petunias are starting to blossom all up and down the streets, thanks mainly to the effort of Bob Cole and some of his helpers. They are really beginning to show up along with some planters in the downtown area.

On the corner of North Down River Road and Michigan Avenue the half barrel with geraniums are again welcoming visitors to town and just beyond that at Dr. Hough's office he has a triangular shaped planting of red, white, and blue flowers. Very attractive!

On the other end of town the Pizza Hut has built a planter of ties and filled with flowers. The Aquarama Motel has a new sign and landscaping as well as some more construction underway. And at the Country Club we saw John Wejrowski weeding the entrance plants which spell out GCC. The library has planters filled again this year and Moore's Automotive landscaping that was put in last year looks very nice. It usually takes about a year for grass and bushes to really get a start.

Another business that has moved and put up a new sign is the Potbelly Antiques owned by Carl and Rose Hatfield at their new location on North Down River Rd. next to the Fish Hatchery.

New roofing is being put onto the former Esbern Hanson house - a very beautiful home that appears to be in the process of renovation.

THE GIRL SCOUTS AND YOGI — Hi my name is Christi, I want to tell you about my troop's trip to Jellystone Park. We went there May 31st for a Fun in Nature Day, Fly Up, and Sleep Over. We started at 9:00 a.m. Sat. and after our opening Flag Ceremony we began our activities. We all had a schedule to follow with things from the Five Worlds and fun things to do if we wanted. We learned to square dance, play an African childrens game, paint rocks, nature hunt in the alphabet, and Mouse ercised. The Brownies fixed sloppy joes for our lunch and Yogi and BooBoo tried to take it. It was a long winter for Bears. For dinner the Juniors prepared Hobo Stew. There was Putt Putt Golf, Volleyball, a hay ride and much needed rest times. Everyone had a great time learning from each other and doing things

It was really nice of Jellystone to donate the park to us. All the Leaders planned together for the day and Cindy Green organized the events and kept everything going, she really had a big job to do but she did it well. Girl Scouts are supposed to always be prepared and to do a good turn daily. I think she is about 1 yr. ahead of the rest. Without the adults we would not have been able to have had the event at all. Thanks for a weekend we'll never forget and for being sisters to us all. By: Christi Lobsinger.

SPORTS FANS! Know

Brought To You By Bob White Sales Representative

Here's an interesting point to hink about...Whenever a fatheror anyone-teaches a youngster low to hit a baseball, they always say to put your hands together on the bat...Yet, did you know that two of the greatest hitters in the history of baseball used a different way of hitting?...Both Ty Cobb and Honus Wagner batted with their hands separated on the bat...They each had one hand spaced apart a few inches from the other on the handle of the bat...Isn't it strange that no one tries to but that way today? ...Cobb had the highest lifetime batting average of all-time, .367 and Wagner's was .329.

And speaking of odd batting positions, one of the strangest belonged to Al Simmons who played in the majors for 20 years between 1924 and 1944...He always stepped away from the plate with his left, or front, foot while hitting, or, as it's known in baseball slang, he "stepped in the bucket"...If any batter does that today, he's instructed not to... You aren't supposed to be able to hit that way...Yet, Simmons who did it all his career is in the Hall of Fame, and wound up with a lifetime batting average of .334!

I bet you didn't know...During 1986 Chevrolet introduced the Chevrolet Sprint. This car is Chevy's first 3 cylinder engine car. The Sprint gets over 50 miles per gallon on the highway and has 4 passenger seating. The Sprint is also front drive and has many standard features.

Ms. M. Elene Hamilton Rt. 1, Box 1511

Grayling, Mich. 49738 Dear Ms. Hamilton:

Thank you for taking the time to share with me your concerns about the conversion of Camp Shawono from a minimum to a medium/ maximum security program.

In responding to your concerns, I would like to indicate to you that I have been kept informed of the planning for Camp Shawono by the Department of Social Services and have had the opportunity to meet with the officials involved in administering the facility.

As your letter indicates, the new program calls for a medium and a maximum security program. The maximum security program, i.e., a Regional Detention Center for northern Michigan will have a full lock-up building and a fenced play field. This secure program was not scheduled to open June 2, 1986. It will not open in the future until new construction is completed. The medium security program, i.e. a Training School Center for northern Michigan, was scheduled to begin operations on June 2, 1986. While a new dormitory with individual rooms that can be locked is planned for the future, this new building is not considered essential to begin operations for three major reasons.

First, there are several similar programs with similar populations in Michigan already in operation that are successful that do not have any locked doors.

Second, the capacity at Shawono Center will be dropped to 10-20 youth beginning in June. With current reflected by the meeting on

Dear Whitey,

On May 17, Mercy Hospital in Grayling celebrated its 75th anniversary. This is a milestone for Mercy Hospital, and for the people of Grayling and the surrounding communities who are so well served by the Sisters of Mercy who run the hospital.

I was privileged to be among those asked to participate in the ceremonies marking Mercy Hospital's 75th anniversary. At those ceremonies, it was my honor to read a letter from President Reagan commending the work of the hospital. Because of the great pride we all take in Mercy Hospital, I am enclosing a copy of this letter. I hope you will print this letter so it can be shared by all your readers.

With warm regards, Sincerely, Bill Schuette Member of Congress

The White House Washington

May 15, 1986 It gives me pleasure to send greetings to the Sisters of Mercy and everyone connected with Mercy Hospital, Grayling, as you celebrate 75 years of service to Northern Michigan.

Your hospital's founding, as well as its growth, is a story of people of vision and compassion working for the good of all. In the beginning, a need was seen. Land was donated, people volunteered to help build, and three of the Sisters began to care for the sick and the disabled. Thus, the story of your hospital symbolizes the spirit that built this country and made it great.

Nancy and I send best wishes to the staff, board, advisors, volunteers, and patients. God bless you all.

Dear Editor:

I'm a concerned parent. I've been informed that my son should be in the D-K program for school.

I wish that the school would set up a program outlining what a child should know before they go to school for their pre-testing. I'm a single parent with one child and I had no idea what I needed to teach him before he went for pre-testing.

I had hoped that since he was in Head Start he'd be ready for school, but, apparently that program is lacking. I wish I could afford to have my son sent to the Co-Op Nursery. I hear the school and them have a deal worked out so those kids will for sure be ready for school!

To all parents of 4 year olds, I would call the school and find out what your child should know before next March, otherwise you may be in for a shock, too.

> Thanks for printing this. Beth Haggard 607 Ottawa, Apt. A Grayling, Mi 49738

Blood Pressure Clinic June 23

Area residents are reminded by Mercy Hospital, Grayling and the local Red Cross to have their blood pressure checked during the free Blood Pressure Clinic at the hospital on Monday, June 23.

Free blood pressure checks are offered at Mercy Hospital, Grayling every fourth Monday of the month from 3:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the front lobby. The local chapter of the American Red Cross provides this valuable service to area residents. Everyone is encouraged to come in and have their blood pressure checked during the free clinics.

High blood pressure, or hypertension, is the leading cause of strokes in the United States. If left uncontrolled, high blood pressure also can lead to heart attack, kidney failure, and death. But hypertensives who control their blood pressure can lead normal, healthy lives. Treatment usually involves medication that must be taken daily in addition to lifestyle modifications for successful control.

So stop in Mercy Hospital's front lobby on Monday, June 23. A small effort can make a big difference!

HAVE YOU COMPLIMENTED Your Child Today?

A child needs at least one, good solid compliment per day. If "an apple a day keeps the doctor away." a compliment a day will give self-esteem to your child.

Self-esteem is crucial for a person. How does a child build it? Does he come by it himself? Not really. The beginning of self-esteem happens when parents constantly and consistently COMPLIMENT the child.

Children need to hear, "Hey you did a great job." A pat on the back, a "well done," "I appreciate you," "I'm proud of you," are beautiful words to the ears and ego of the child. whether the child is 5 or 50.

Some sons and daughters now grown have never heard their fathers praise them to their faces. Oh, they hear from others how proud Pop is of them, but they may hurt, hoping to hear it with their own ears. And some fathers go to their graves, proud as peaches of their sons, but they never, "Said it."

"A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in baskets of silver." (Proverbs 25:11)

Resource Review

by Bruce Patrick Conservation Officer

Wildlife Division field personnel will be making recommendations for 1986 Hunter's Choice quotas within the next couple of weeks.

Biologists use a number of variables in reaching these recommendations. Among these variables are spring fawn production, quality of the available habitat, anticipated hunting pressure, and starvation losses from previous years. This year another variable must be considered - the effect on hunter success of the two deer limit. It is anticipated that most hunters who have the opportunity will take advantage of this expanded limit, with a resulting success ratio of 50%.

At this time it appears as if the recommendation will be that much of Crawford County will be under Hunter's Choice regulations. Some parts of Roscommon County which were open last year may be closed to Hunter's Choice hunting this year.

Final recommendation will be made in early July with the final order anticipated by mid-August.

You don't have to live in the country to see wildlife! While having his morning coffee at the kitchen table on June 10 about 6:18 a.m. Bob Bovee looked up to see a deer come strolling up Evart Jones' front lawn on Ingham Street. Startled by the movement in the window the deer took off for Borchers Canoe Livery and across Maple Street in the direction of Penrod's.

Evart Jones was in Swartz Creek last week where he attended graduation of his granddaughter, Susan Boyd, daughter of Richard and Jill Jones Boyd.

Joe and Terri Wakeley and daughters, Meg and Emily drove to Wadesboro, North Carolina, to visit her sister, Denise Bixler, who is working on a movie in that area. They spent a week sightseeing.
